Brandy Ehrlich is an associate attorney who is building her practice on insurance coverage and defense. Prior to joining Thompson Coe, Brandy worked for a plaintiff's personal injury firm and in law school, as a clerk at a criminal defense law firm. Her comprehensive experience on both the plaintiff and defense side of litigation gives her a unique and valuable perspective in her insurance coverage and defense practice today. Brandy is focused on representing insurance companies in complex litigation matters and strives to find the best solutions for her clients at every stage of litigation.
