Morgan Wells focuses his practice on defending complicated personal injury and wrongful death lawsuits and representing clients in a wide range of commercial disputes. Morgan has represented clients in the electric utility, construction, petrochemical, hospitality, and trucking industries.

His clients have included industry leaders, large international companies, small businesses, and individuals. Morgan has litigated cases in state and federal courts across Texas and has experience in arbitration proceedings, including international arbitrations.

His state court litigation experience includes representing clients within the context of Multi-District Litigation and other complex, multi-party disputes. This includes his representation of clients in connection with suits stemming from events that attract attention from the media and the general public.

Morgan has experience handling these matters at every stage of a prospective claim, from responding to an event shortly after it occurs through all phases of the litigation process. Morgan draws heavily on his risk management background to effectively manage complex litigations and obtain the best results for his clients.
