Stephanie Krueger is the attorney you want on your side. She is more than a trial attorney; she is someone who will fight for each client in-and-out of court with focus and integrity.

Stephanie has a deep appreciation for hard work and embodies the values and lessons instilled in her from her blue-collar upbringing. With her unique experience and perspective, she can navigate the complexity in each case and determine the best course of action for every client.

Stephanie focuses on defending claims for negligence, premises liability, commercial automobile accidents, products liability, dram shop, oil pollution and environmental claims, and industrial accidents involving property damage, personal injury, and wrongful death.

Energy

Stephanie has defended several midstream and upstream energy companies in multi-million-dollar claims involving environmental pollution, down-hole losses, and personal injury claims arising from well-site incidents. She has also defended property owners and property management entities on a wide variety of premises liability claims ranging from simple slip and falls to third-party criminal activity.

Transportation

Stephanie's transportation practice extends from coast to coast, and includes representing local, regional, and long-haul trucking companies and their drivers in claims for personal injury, property damage, and wrongful death. Stephanie also has experience assisting trucking companies with DOT/FMCSA compliance issues and advising them before, during, and after DOT audits.

Healthcare

Stephanie has experience representing health care providers in medical malpractice lawsuits and administrative matters including investigations by the Texas Medical Board, the Texas Board of Nursing, and the Office of Civil Rights. She also maintains a docket of veterinary cases, ranging from malpractice claims to board complaints to pre-suit investigations.

Representative Experience

Obtained favorable verdicts in multiple adverse-liability trials.
